By The Associated Press

CAMP PERRY O July 11—Some of the National guardsmen in training here may bear scars when they return home in the near future but not if they can keep from scratching themselves.

The scars if any—will be the results of chicken pox. Several suspected cases of the disease have been discovered and a Cleveland infantry regiment the 145th was placed under quarantine yesterday.

Company A was placed in quarantine Friday but was reported to have failed to observe it. The general quarantine followed.

Adjt Gen Frank D Henderson commandant said the cases are mild in form and that there is no danger to the men.

Regular training will be continued but all necessary precautions will be taken to keep the contagion from spreading.

Orders to place the 73rd infantry brigade in quarantine came while the troops were marching out for review before 5,000 spectators. Brig Gen L S Connelly also was waiting for the review when the troops were commanded "To the rear march" and the parade ended before it was hardly started.

Houses Swept Away as Creeks Rise to Flood Stage Without Warning.

By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON W Va July 11—Twelve persons were reported drowned today by floods on Paint and Armstrong creeks near here. The Kanawha county engineer's office reported four bodies were recovered from Paint creek and eight from the Kanawha river.

Reports that more than 150 homes on the two creeks had been washed away were received here. It was not known how many were occupied.

Mute evidence of the havoc caused by a sudden rainstorm was seen in the Kanawha river at Charlestown. Both creeks empty into the Kanawha.

Sides of houses stair cases mattresses brooms telephone poles and various articles of furniture floated in great profusion down the river. Navigation was almost impossible except in small craft.

Both creeks reached flood stage within a few minutes virtually trapping sleeping residents in their beds.

The first casualty reported was an unidentified white man whose body was found at Crown Point on Armstrong creek. Four of those drowned were believed to be members of a Negro family named Mitchell.

Two children named Kincaid were rescued at Chelyan after they had floated on a log nine miles down swollen Paint creek. They said their home was swept away.

A physician treated a father and two children after they were rescued from driftwood in the Kanawha river. The mother and two other children of the family were unaccounted for.

Damage to railroads in both Kanawha and Fayette counties was reported. A flood torn bridge at Paint Creek stopped eastbound traffic over the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad and part of the road's Big Loup creek branch was washed out near MacDonald Fayette county. The Virginian railway also suffered damage on its lower Loup creek branch between Page and Deep Water.

NINE PERSONS DEAD IN GERMAN RIOTING

Scores More Injured in Bloody Sunday Political Outbreaks.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN July 11—Reports from the provinces today showed that Sunday was one of the bloodiest days the nation has suffered since political clashes became common place a few months ago. Nine persons were killed and scores were seriously injured.

It was necessary to call out the Reichsehr to assist the police at Ohlau in Silesia where Adolf Hitler's National Socialist followers battled Republican Reichsbanner members. Four dead and 21 more or less seriously wounded were left on the field of battle.

The new reparations agreement formulated at Lausanne last week, under which Germany agreed to pay 3,000,000,000 marks to settle reparations claims against her "will not be worth three marks within six months" according to Adolf Hitler's Germany's National Socialist chieftain.

Hitler made the prediction last night in an address to a monster meeting of uniformed Nazis from Bavaria and Austria at Berchtesgaden. A sharp line had been drawn he said between the government of Chancellor Franz Von Papen and the Nazis.

Hoover Hits Garner Bill In Veto Message Today

President Says Proposal Violates Every Sound Principle of Public Finance and Government; Urges Substitute Measure.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 11—Carrying out his threat President Hoover today vetoed the $2,122,000,000 Wagner-Garner relief measure.

The President's veto message running more than 2,000 words in length was placed in the hands of newspapermen at the White House within 15 minutes after the measure reached the chief executive.

In it the President launched another bitter attack against the provisions insisted upon by Speaker Garner to make loans to individuals.

This proposal the President asserted violates every sound principle of public finance and of government. Never before has so dangerous a suggestion been seriously made to our country. Never before has so much power for evil been placed at the unlimited discretion of seven individuals.

Having in mind the wish for early adjournment the President in his message recommended that a compromise should be reached of both houses and both parties and that congress should not adjourn until this is accomplished.

After commenting at length upon various phases of the measure the President in conclusion said:

In view of the short time left to the congress for consideration of this legislation and of the urgent need for sound relief measures the necessity of which I have on several occasions urged upon the congress I recommend that compromise should be reached upon terms suggested by members of both houses and both parties and that the congress should not adjourn until this is accomplished.

With the utmost seriousness I urge the congress to enact a relief measure but I cannot approve the measure before me fraught as it is with possibilities of misfeasance and special privileges so impracticable of administration so dangerous to public credit and so damaging to our whole conception of governmental relations to the people as to bring far more distress than it will cure."

GUTHERY BACK AT STATE POST

LaRue Man Returns to Office in Agriculture Department After Heart Attack.

I S Guthery state director of agriculture, who was stricken with a heart attack at his home near LaRue last Feb 19 returned to his office in Columbus today for the first time according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Guthery, according to Dr Donald Shira of LaRue his attending physician has not completely recovered from the two heart attacks which made his condition critical for several weeks. The second attack came approximately a month after the first.

He has been gaining strength steadily for several weeks Dr Shira said and has been able to walk and to take automobile rides during the last two days.

Since Guthery's condition began to show marked improvement during the last few weeks, the possibility that he might resign as director of agriculture has steadily diminished. There were rumors in circulation around the state capitol several weeks ago that Governor White might ask him to resign.

County's First Wheat Reaches Local Market

The first Marion county wheat reported harvested this year yielded approximately 24 bushels to the acre and commanded a price of 40 cents a bushel, it was reported this morning. The wheat was cut by Max Ehlin of the Garden City pike who estimated the yield from his 94 acres would be approximately 24 bushels to the acre, or about five bushels to the acre lighter than last year's yield.

Since Ehlin marketed his first wheat Thursday at the J J Curl Co here Friday at 40 cents the price has shrunk to 38 cents a bushel but still is ahead of the 36 and 37 cent prices posted for wheat last year.

Ehlin is using a combine harvester cutting and threshing his wheat simultaneously. He reported that the quality is good, although the yield will be somewhat light.

ROOSEVELT ON OCEAN CRUISE

Leaves on Week's Trip After Failure To Gain Conference with Hoover.

By The Associated Press

PORT JEFFERSON N Y, July 11 Governor Roosevelt became Skipper Roosevelt of the Myth II today with a crew of Roosevelts to command.

On the eve of his departure in a small sail boat for a week's vacation with three of his sons the presidential nominee learned the trip would not be interrupted by an invitation from President Hoover to come to Washington.

The President in firm terms advised his political rival last night there was no need for a personal conference to speed up negotiations for a St Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada. Mr Roosevelt had suggested such a conference and informed Mr Hoover he would abandon the excursion up to the New England coast to talk over the waterway question.

Mr Roosevelt refrained from commenting upon the President's telegram. One of his advisers however made it plain he regarded it an evasion of the issue.

In laying aside his political responsibilities for a week the governor also laid aside the garments of a landsman for canvas pants and flannel shirt. An anchorage off New Haven Conn is the goal of the first day.

The course will take him along the coast of Connecticut and Rhode Island to Buzzards bay through the Cape Cod canal and along the coast of Massachusetts to Portsmouth New Hampshire.

Governor Roosevelt's crew is made up of his sons James Franklin and John. The fourth Roosevelt boy Elliott was unable to make the trip.

A boatload of news writers and cameramen and a number of political leaders followed the governor's boat.

DISSENTERS CALLED BY THIRD PARTIES

New Political Groups Spring Up as Protest Against Regulars.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 11 Almost countless third parties again this presidential election year beckon to the dissenters from both old tickets and platforms.

To millions of voters of course November offers just a choice between Hoover and Roosevelt but there remain the aspiring organizers of new groups with their wide assortment of ideas and candidates.

Backers of at least three of these minority movements hope they can play a role comparable to Theodore Roosevelt's "Bull Moose" party in 1912 or to Bob LaFollette's Progressive sortie of 1924.

They are the Prohibition party representing one wing of the country's dry sentiment, the "Liberty Party" grouping the more radical independents of the central and western agricultural zone and the League for Independent Political Action based largely on the strength of political reformers in the east.

LINDY KIDNAP HOAXER ALSO FINED $1,000

Counsel for Norfolk "Intermediary" Loses Fight To Stay Judgment.

PREJUDICE IS CHARGED

Defendant the "Goat," Attorneys Charge, Serving Notice of Appeal.

By The Associated Press

FLEMINGTON N J July 11—John Hughes Curtis convicted of hindering capture of the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby was sentenced today to one year in jail and a fine of $1,000.

The maximum possible sentence which could have been imposed under the indictment on which Curtis was found guilty was three years imprisonment and $1,000 fine.

The sentencing followed a fervent attempt on the part of the defense to halt action against Curtis before sentence was imposed.

Defense counsel moved for arrest of judgment on the same grounds that three separate attempts were made during the trial to halt the action before it reached the jury.

After a heated argument Judge Adam O Robbins ruled that these points already had been passed on and denied the motion.

Contact Denied

Lloyd C Fisher, chief counsel for Curtis said that Curtis had never had any contact with the kidnapers.

"He was just a man with wild dreams about boats and things" he said.

This statement came as a complete surprise because the defense stand during the trial seemed to be that Curtis had been in touch with the real kidnapers and had done everything possible to help obtain return of the baby and capture of the kidnapers.

Curtis was arrested after he signed a confession that all his negotiations were a hoax, but later he repudiated this confession and when the trial opened the state accepted the repudiation and based its charges on the allegation that Curtis had been in touch with the kidnapers and then had prevented their capture by the hoax confession.

In arguing for arrest of judgment Fisher said Curtis had been made the goat because he was prominent enough to come within the state's jurisdiction.

Blames Prejudice

"Prejudice is the only reason John Hughes Curtis sits there convicted" he said. "We plead for mercy. The jury urged mercy. Only John Hughes Curtis the goat, is tried. Thousands of clues and letters were received but none were charged with obstructing justice. He is charged because he was prominent enough to come within the state's jurisdiction."

After the motion for arrest of judgment was denied Prosecutor Anthony Hauck recommended in view of the jury's plea for mercy that Curtis be sentenced to two years in state prison and a fine of $1,000.

In an impassioned plea to the court before sentence was imposed Fisher dwelt at length upon his assertion that prejudice had caused Curtis' conviction.

He said that Curtis was tried in a court room steeped with prejudice in which the most famous man in the country, Col Charles A. Lindbergh sat through out the trial.

Fisher also said that one of the jurors after the verdict was handed down said he did not believe Curtis guilty but that a new trial would have cost the state $10,000.

Curtis Removed

As soon as arguments were completed Curtis was called to

Picking Up?

(Will Rogers Special)

MULESHOE Tex, July 11—Well sir dont you think things are looking better? They are among the stock raisers and farmers.

I have always maintained that the Republicans this summer before election would with all their influence and money power create an amateur prosperity enough to make folks think things were on the upgrade and not to change horses.

You know it's not going to take much to make us think we are doing fine. No bread, or white meat, just the wing and the old back will taste like a banquet to us now.

I think too just promising people some beer made everybody feel better even if they know they will die of old age before they get it.

Yours,

Will Rogers

Gomez Banged from Hill for Third Loss in Row as Yanks Lose Pair

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Athletics were only six games out of first place in the American league today after writing into the record one of the most spectacular long distance victories in baseball history.

Eighteen innings they traveled yesterday to beat out the Cleveland Indians 18 to 17 and it was a game the likes of which won't be seen once in a blue moon. It was won and lost a half dozen times before Jimmie Foxx finally scored the deciding run.

Johnny Burnett of the Indians collected nine hits in eleven times at bat and his teammates Averill and Morgan got five each. Foxx with six hits including three home runs knocked in eight runs for the A's. Simmons had five. There were 58 hits.

A New Record

Burnett's feat for all the records disclose might have established a major league record. The accepted mark of seven hits set by Wilbert Robinson before the turn of the century was in a regulation length contest.

Ed Rommel went the last 17 innings for the Athletics and in the end gained the nod over Young Wesley Ferrell who was firing them over the last 11 and a fraction frames for the Indians.

Victory was doubly sweet to the A's as the Yankees were dropping two to St. Louis 10 to 9 and 8 to 7. The Browns knocked Gomez from the hill in the first game to hand him his third straight defeat.

Detroit divided a pair with the Red Sox winning the first 7 to 5 and dropping the second 12 to 2. While Alvin Crowder pitched steady ball Washington belted three White Sox flippers for 19 hits and a 13 to 3 victory.

Bucs, Cubs Both Win

Pittsburgh and Chicago were a stand-off in their torrid race for National league honors as both captured Sabbath encounters. The leading Pirates picked up an 8 to 7 win over Brooklyn.

Chicago's dazzling sophomore Lonnie Warneke shut the Braves out 4 to 0 on six hits for his twelfth success of the year.

The Cincinnati Reds received two well pitched games, whipped the Giants twice 6 to 4 and 4 to 2. The Reds with eight victories in ten games were out of the basement today, leaving eighth place to the New Yorkers.

Bill Hallahan and Dizzy Dean hurled the Cardinals to a double win over the Phillies 7 to 5 and 3 to 1, Dean yielding only five hits.

DIZZY WHIRL AHEAD FOR SOFTBALL FANS AS RACES TIGHTEN

Anything May Happen This Week as Teams Battle for Crowns.

If there are any softball fans in Marion with weak hearts it would be advisable to see the family physician before attending certain of the games scheduled in the four city leagues this week. There is a large number of the conflicts which are quite likely to produce far more thrills and much more excitement than a weak pumper could stand.

The four games today will serve as more or less of a starter for the week's schedule inasmuch as only one of the lot promises to furnish other than ordinary competition. The clash between the Epworth Seniors and Christian No. 1 teams at Harding field tops the schedule. The game means a lot to both teams but more to the Methodists.

The Real Battle

Tuesday will see the game the fans have been waiting for—the second battle of the season between First Presbyterians and Lee Street Presbyterians. Lee Street holds a 1-0 decision over the uptown Presbies, the only time the latter has been beaten this year. The West siders are out to make it two in a row if possible and will battle tooth and nail to accomplish this feat. They will play at Lincoln park. The Epworth Bishops and St. Mary's also renew their rivalry at Garfield park in a game which will see the loser virtually eliminated from titular consideration.

On Wednesday the No. 2 Sunday school league will play off the postponed games of June 27. None of the games will hold more than average interest as the leaders will be meeting the second division clubs.

The four-way deadlock for first place in the Industrial league will be shattered Thursday. The Gasco-C. D. & M. battle at Lincoln and Shovel-Erie clash at Garfield will headline the program of the day. The Gasco and C. D. & M. are two of the four co-holders of first place and should put on a great fracas. The favorite—pick your own.

Lead at Stake

The Kappa-Masonic battle at Lincoln and the Kay Pee-Prospect melee at Garfield will furnish the principal excitement in the Commercial league's exhibit Friday. The Kay Pee nine is still leading the pack by a half game margin and is battling to retain the slender margin. A victory for the team would keep it in the lead regardless of the outcome of other games but a defeat for the K. of P. coupled with a victory of the Kappas over the Masons would shove the Kappas into the van. However there is no certainty the Kappas will defeat the Masons. A tough struggle is likely to precede the decision in that fame.

Next Sunday another of the weekly three-game four team tournaments featuring one Marion and three out of town combines will be presented at Lincoln park. White & Son's Morticians, Columbus' fastest colored team will be one of the entries. The Zo Ro Lo nine of Ada will be another. The other two entrants are not definitely ascertained.

OAKLAND CAPTURES MT. GILEAD CONTEST

The Oakland All Stars baseball team scored a 4-3 victory Sunday over Mt. Gilead in a game played at Mt. Gilead. Oakland committed six errors but managed to come through with a win despite the ragged play.

Batteries and score by innings:

Oakland 100 000 002 1—4 13 6
Mt. Gilead 011 001 000 0—3 5 1

Oakland—Thorp and Sevetts; Mt. Gilead—Dumbaugh and Larer.

MERCHANT-GREYS LOSE TO MARTEL

The Marion Merchant Greys colored baseball team dropped a 7-6 decision yesterday afternoon to Martel at Martel. The Greys outhit the winners but were unable to bunch their hits effectively. W. Adams struck out 14 Martel batters.

The Greys will practice Wednesday afternoon at Lincoln park and play at Caledonia next Sunday.

Score by innings:

Greys 100 310 001—6 11 3
Martel 000 013 003—7 8 5

CALEDONIA BEATEN BY CHILDREN'S HOME

The Marion county children's home softball team squeezed out a 3-2 victory Saturday over Caledonia in a Marion county softball league game. Wade twirled the game for the winners giving up four hits.

Batteries and score by innings:

Caledonia 002 000 0—2 3 [illegible]
C. Home 000 201 x—3 4 2

Caledonia—Baird and Hess; C. Home—Wade and Sales.

RACE PILOT DIES IN AKRON MISHAP

AKRON, O., July 11—Hundreds of spectators saw Sam Gibson, Youngstown auto race driver, burn to death yesterday when his car was wrecked in a 50-lap event at the North Hampton dirt track.

Almost immediately after hurdling a fence the wreckage, with Gibson pinned under it, became a mass of flames and the spectators were helpless to extricate him.

Harve Ferner turned in another good pitching performance for Carey yesterday afternoon and the Donelson Semi pro team racked up the thirteenth victory in 17 starts against the Gulf Prides of Delta, winning by a 7-2 score. Ferner allowed only two hits and won the game despite seven errors on the part of his team mates.

GIRL CHAMPS LOSE SUNDAY CLASH HERE

Erie Racks Up 9-5 Decision as 1,500 Look on. Kay Pees Win Boys' Tourney.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor The Star

Approximately 1,500 persons clicked the turnstiles at Lincoln park yesterday afternoon for the privilege of discovering that girls cannot play softball on even terms with boys. The Midvale Oil's world champion girls team of Cleveland marked up against the Erie Mechanics of Marion in an exhibition ball game that saw the Industrial league combine romp off with a 9-5 victory. Four other teams all boys put on another of the regular weekly tournaments in addition to the girls-boys exhibition. The Marion K. of P. lodge nine was the winner of the tourney, shutting out East Liverpool in the final game by a 4-0 score.

All things considered the tourney yesterday was the best put on this season at the North side park. Some of the classiest teams which have appeared here this year battled for the cup which is given the winner of the tourney.

The Erie Mechanics had little difficulty in beating the Midvale Oil girls. However the Midvale manager insists his girls were not playing up to their regular form.

Forgetting the score of the game the girls furnished the crowd with a good exhibition. Dot Underwood, the team's heavy hitter banged out a homer and several others on the team surprised the fans with their ability at the plate and in the field. The Erie nine of Marion also had one girl in the lineup. Thelma (Pipp) Biggerstaff of Prospect occupied first base for the railroaders and put on a fielding exhibition easily on a par with that of any of the Cleveland girls.

Whittaker's Morticians of Columbus and the Kay Pee team of Marion played the final game of the boys tourney with the lodge team finishing on the long end of a 2-0 count. Don Lindsey allowed the colored batters only one single in the seven innings. The winners collected only four safeties but three of them came in one inning and with the aid of an error allowed both runners to cross the plate.

Van Wert and East Liverpool put on a battle royal for five innings in the second game and then East Liverpool broke up the game as Bloor smacked a long home run with one aboard. Speed Gettles of Mansfield twirled the victory for the East Liverpool team setting Van Wert down with three hits.

Dale Schwaderer turned in a neat pitching job in the final game of the tourney as the Kay Pees whitewashed East Liverpool 4-0 to capture the meet. Schwaderer gave the losers only four hits and never allowed a man to pass second base. Myron Gibson led the assault that gave the winners the victory, lashing out two long homers that accounted for three of the four tallies. Maley, East Liverpool catcher kept the crowded stands in a constant uproar with his antics behind the bat.

Batteries and score by innings:

Whittaker's 000 000 0—0 1 1
K. of P. 002 000 x—2 4 1

Whittaker's—Trust and Mitchell; K. of P.—Lindsey and Messenger.

East Liverpool 000 004 1—5 6 0
Van Wert 000 000 0—0 3 4

East Liverpool—Gettles and Maley; Van Wert—Brown and Waldron.

Midvale Girls 001 003 1—5 7 3
Erie Mechanics 315 000 x—9 8 2

Midvale Girls—Simms and Smith; Erie—Vestal and Flickinger.

East Liverpool 000 000 000—0 4 1
K. of P. 100 010 20x—4 10 0

COLUMBUS SLIDES TO FOURTH IN RACE FOR ASSOCIATION FLAG

Minneapolis, Indianapolis Pull Away from Field, Millers Out in Front

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 11—It is beginning to look more and more as though the battle for the championship of the American Association lies between Minneapolis and Indianapolis.

Until the middle of last week it was a dizzy three-club race but a sudden slump of the Columbus Red Birds, the Millers and Indians have pulled away from the rest.

Minneapolis today led Indianapolis by one and one half games with Milwaukee and Columbus virtually tied in third position though the Brewers had a [illegible]

Auburn was hurled up more than 6 points.

The packing stocks continued to advance in sympathy with big prices gains of a point or so appearing in Cudahy Armour of Illinois preferred and Wilson A. while Wilson preferred gained 3. Miscellaneous issues up a point or two included American Tobacco and Liggett and Myers class "B" shares Santa Fe, Norfolk and Western, Union Pacific, Woolworth, Sears, National Biscuit, Procter and Gamble, B-M-T, Detroit Edison, Peoples Gas, Air Reduction and McKeesport. Gains of substantial fractions appeared in U. S. Steel, American Can, Standard of N. J., Consolidated Gas and others. American Telephone declined 1½ to 80, a new low before it met support and Coca Cola got down 2 points. Allied Chemical, Case and North American sold a point lower temporarily.

While it is felt in some quarters that the session of congress has dragged on so long that much of the psychological effect of adjournment may have been lost, Wall Street was still extremely anxious to be granted a breathing spell from the pressure of legislative uncertainties.

CROP REPORT HURTS PRICES

Chicago Wheat Slides Downward Following Slump at Liverpool.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO July 11—New downturns in grain values here early today followed fresh setbacks at Liverpool ascribed to favorable reports about North American spring wheat prospects. Notice was also taken of forecasts that Germany's 1932 wheat crop would be the largest ever known. Starting [illegible] off Chicago wheat futures continued to sag. Corn started [illegible] lower and subsequently held near initial limits.

With spring wheat now entering a critical phase and with black rust present on both sides of the Canadian border developments [illegible] were generally regarded as [illegible] price influence. [illegible] resulted also from word of cheap offerings of Argentine wheat abroad and from an announcement that the French foreign wheat quota had been reduced to 25 per cent. Meanwhile assertions continued in some quarters the larger domestic winter wheat receipts southwest were to be looked for soon.

On the other hand Illinois reports were current that farmers appeared remarkably unconcerned about selling wheat. A Jacksonville Ill dispatch said growers were not even asking the price and where they had begun threshing the wheat was being stored. The death [illegible] an official warning from Washington was received against storing wet wheat. It was stated that this applied in particular to conditions in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas where there had been excessive rains since harvest.

Corn and oats followed wheat market changes.

Provisions displayed a continuing upward trend.

In this High-pressure Age smokers want a Milder Cigarette

WE LIVE in a fast-moving age. We work harder... play harder... travel quicker. And we smoke more cigarettes.

But there's this about it: They have got to be milder today. In this high-pressure age, smokers don't like strong cigarettes.

About four miles of warehouses are filled with mild, ripe, Domestic tobaccos, stored away to age for two years to make them mild and mellow for CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes.

To make sure that CHESTERFIELD is a milder cigarette, the greater part of 90 million dollars is invested in the tobaccos used in CHESTERFIELD. These tobaccos are "Cross-Blended."

This "Welding" Together—or "Cross-Blending"—permits every kind of tobacco used in the CHESTERFIELD blend to partake of the best qualities of every other type. It's the same principle that Burbank used in crossing different fruits to make a still better fruit.

CHESTERFIELDS are milder . . . never harsh . . . and that's why, in this high-pressure age, more smokers, men and women, are changing to CHESTERFIELDS every day.

The rule works both ways

IT is impossible for the Big Four Railroad to enjoy prosperity without the communities it serves sharing it also.

Adversity suffered by the railroad is keenly felt by such communities in lowered tax receipts, fewer citizens employed and smaller local purchases.

An understanding of this common interest is most important today. Prosperity can come to the railroad only through increased business.

Business diverted to other transportation systems that return less of their incomes to the communities they serve but delays the return of prosperity to the railroad and so to your community.

We win or lose together. Let's help ourselves.

Nations Face New Issue as Briton Charges Insult by Free State

By The Associated Press

DUBLIN IRISH FREE STATE July 11—A new issue was drawn between the British crown and President Eamon De Valera's Free State government today.

Governor General James McNeill an appointee of King George V and an Ulster man made public demand last night that President De Valera apologize to him for what he considered personal insults by members of the De Valera government. He threatened to resign if the apology were refused.

The snubs he said began when Sean O'Kelly vice president of the Free State executive council and Frank Aiken minister of defense walked out of a ball at the French embassy last April as soon as the governor general entered and the British national anthem was struck up.

A letter from President De Valera published last night by Mr McNeill said De Valera considered the incident unfortunate and regrettable but added that further than this I am unable to go.

The correspondence was published by the governor general against a direct order from the Free State executive council.

the bar where he faced Judge Robbins with an apparent air of unconcern.

"You have been convicted by a jury of committing a misdemeanor," said Judge Robbins. "It is now my unpleasant duty to impose sentence. In my 10 years of experience I have never given a sentence so much consideration and thought.

"The jury recommended mercy. There is evidence that you are a law abiding citizen but these matters can not sway the court. I sentence you to serve one year and pay a fine of $1,000."

Curtis then returned to the defense counsel table where he sat with folded arms while defense and prosecution attorneys moved up to the bench to discuss details of appeal.

Fisher immediately launched into an argument in favor of a new trial for Curtis but Prosecutor Hauck protested that such an argument could not be given in the county court but in the appellate court. Judge Robbins denied the motion.

Will Appeal Case

Fisher then announced that he would seek appeal in the regular manner by going to a higher court.

After sentence was imposed the question was raised of issuance of a certificate of reasonable doubt permitting Curtis to be released on bail pending appeal.

After a recess during which arguments were heard Judge Robbins issued the certificate of reasonable doubt and signed the writ of error which sends the case to the supreme court.

Fisher said he would get in touch with Curtis' friends in Norfolk Va and try to arrange to have bail supplied in a day or two.

Records of the trial and the defense reasons for asking a new trial must be filed with the supreme court by July 30. Unless bail is furnished Curtis will be taken from the county jail to the state prison at that time.

Arguing for a new trial Fisher said the best lead in the Lindbergh kidnaping case is in an army cantonment but he did not elaborate on the statement.

WORLD FLIERS PLAN ANOTHER TRIP SOON

Mattern and Griffin Will Make Second Attempt To Beat Record.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW July 11 — James Mattern and Bennett Griffin world fliers who were forced down at Borisov Russia last Thursday plan another try perhaps later this summer.

The two fliers grimy weary and disappointed stepped off the train yesterday on which they came from Borisov shook hands with a few Americans who had gathered at the station to welcome them and dashed for a bath tub.

Later they told of the failure of their attempt to beat the record of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty and the wreck of their plane in a peat bog near Borisov half way between here and Berlin.

"We got a tough break that's all" they said. "We're going home as soon as we can but we'll tackle it again this year if it's not too late. Certainly we'll try it again next summer if we can get a plane."

Mattern was piloting when the controls of the ship went wrong.

"I looked around" he said "and shouted to Griff that we are coming down. There was what looked like a good spot to land right beneath us. It turned out to be a peat bog and if it hadn't been so soft we would be a long way from here now. When we landed the wheels dug into the mud and the plane nosed over her landing gear in the air.

"As soon as she began to sink in the swamp I gave her the gun but it was too late. She [illegible] nosed over and I was pinned in with the motor [illegible] up within two inches of my knees.

"We were both dazed but Griff yanked me out and we crawled out on one of the wings to recover from the shock."

SPEED? EARTH HAS IT TO SPARE

By ROBERT H BAKER

(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

By The Associated Press

URBANA Ill—Any one who drives his car at the rate of a hundred miles an hour is likely to tell his friends about it. Yet this is very slow going compared with the speed with which the earth is taking us through space.

Consider the earth's rotation. It is whirling us around toward the east at the rate of 1040 miles an hour at the equator.

The speed is reduced to 800 miles an hour at New York. Fortunately the air whirls around with us. If it were not so there would be a continual east wind more violent than the severest tornado.

Then too the earth is taking us around the sun at the rate of 65 000 miles an hour. If there were telegraph poles along the great curved track of the earth they would fly past amazingly fast. But all the objects in the celestial scenery are far away except the moon which goes with us in this journey around the sun.

Companion Voyager

Next the earth and the other planets are the sun's companions on a long voyage through the star fields. We are speeding straight ahead at the rate of 40 000 miles an hour steering our course nearly in the direction of Vega.

Vega is the brilliant blue star nearly overhead in the evening skies of July. In the course of a year we move toward it four times as far as our distance from the sun.

Finally we are flying at the rate of 700 000 miles an hour toward the constellation Cepheus. This constellation can be found in the northern sky to the right of the pole star in the early evening in July. Some people imagine that its principal stars outline a steeple lying on its side at this season with the point toward the pole star.

In Same Direction

In this rapid journey toward Cepheus we have plenty of celestial company. All the stars around us are moving this way also. It is believed that we are taking part in the rotation of the vast system of the Milky Way around its center in the star cloud of Sagittarius 50 000 light years away.

This great star cloud is now visible in the southeast in the early evening and low in the south at midnight. It is the brightest and most spectacular part of the fine region of the Milky Way that we see in summer.

But the earth does not hold the record for high speed. Recent observations at the Mount Wilson observatory appear to show that some of the remote spirals far beyond the Milky Way are speeding away from us at the rate of 75 000 000 miles an hour. This is high speed indeed.

Pastor Hits Beer Move in Union Sermon Here

"The real issue in the prohibition question is whether a few multi millionaire families engaged in brewing are to get a strangle hold on the moral political and financial life of the American people." Was the declaration of Rev Lawrence A Wood pastor of Trinity Baptist church in his sermon last night at the union church services. He spoke on the subject "Shall Prohibition Be Maintained?"

The services were held at the First Presbyterian church and were largely attended. Rev Howard L Olewiler pastor presided and music for the services was contributed by members of the church quartet. Members of Trinity Baptist B Y P U presided for the young people's service which preceded the union meeting.

Rev Wood prophesied the fight would be long and fierce and said the question as to whether the saloons would come back was one which will not down. He cited the profits on the brewing business in England in 1930 as being $125 000 000 and said the dividends paid by the brewery companies were from 12 to 25 per cent. "It is the profit to be made in the brewery business that a few American families are after" he stated.

"The association against the prohibition amendment is backed principally by seven multi millionaire families" he declared and stated that these families are putting enormous sums of money into their propaganda to make the American people willing to let the sale of legalized beer come back.

"The brewers say that will bring back prosperity" he continued. "They claim that they will put a million and a half men to work. In 1914 the year beer had its largest output the brewers employed only 87 000 men. With modern machinery they would employ far less than that today which is a long way from a million and a half. They claim they will revive agriculture. In their best year 1914 they used less than two per cent of the grain raised in America. That is not enough to have any effect on the price of grain. The kind of prosperity they will bring back will be prosperity for themselves. Instead of prosperity the return of beer will bring misery vice and corruption as it always has done."

GUM IS LIFE SAVER

Child Keeps Mouth Closed and Escapes Drowning

By International News Service

WINCHESTER O July 11—A child's penchant for chewing gum is credited with saving the life of two year old Roger Charles.

Roger is the son of Mr and Mrs M C Charles owners of a farm near Sinking Springs.

On their property there is a small stream segregating the farm house from the barn.

A hard rain turned the small stream into a good sized creek.

Trying to join his father in the barnyard Roger started across a 1x6 foot bridge but tumbled into swift waters of the stream.

He was swept along for a quarter of a mile before his father succeeded in rescuing him.

Only once did he cry out and that was when he started falling. After he hit the stream he kept his mouth tightly closed.

The child explained it in baby talk to his father later. It was like this:

Roger had been given a piece of chewing gum and Roger was very fond of it. When he fell into the water he kept his lips shut tight because he didn't want to lose it.

The father said the gum undoubtedly saved the little tyke's life as he would have been drowned if he had opened his mouth and allowed the water to get to his lungs.

Internal Revenue Agent Warns Against Attempts at Dodging

By International News Service

COLUMBUS O July 11—Predicting a crop of a new type of bootleggers with the advent of the new federal revenue tax law, Newton Miller U S collector of internal revenue here issued a warning to manufacturers not to try to dodge the new tax.

Miller said there undoubtedly would be attempts to bootleg articles assessed in the tax levy. He said however that the activities of the federal revenue agents would be doubled in an attempt to apprehend the unscrupulous minority among manufacturers who may endeavor to market bootleg products in competition with the law abiding.

"We are going to try to register every manufacturer of taxable property" he stated.

Miller expressed the belief that the major items in the tax bill such as the gasoline tax will be far easier to check than some of the minor ones. And he added the bigger the producer the easier it will be to collect the tax.

Tax on furs and jewelry especially the latter will be the hardest to collect he believed because of the numerous establishments which handle the valuables.

Makers of syrup for ice cream sodas candy makers mineral water and soft drink manufacturers all come under the new tax law he explained.

The law he said went into effect June 21 and the first returns must be made July 31. From then on monthly reports must be submitted to the internal revenue department by manufacturers.

Flowers that Kill

All Flies or Mosquitoes with a

Perfumed Mist

Some years ago it was discovered that a certain field flower grown in Japan drove away winged insects. A shipment was sent to America for testing in a research laboratory. Here an extract was made from the flowers and sprayed in a closed room filled with flies and mosquitoes. Every insect perished at its touch.

Now that extract is the basis of Fly Tox developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. Ten years and over $100 000 have been spent by us in perfecting it. This Fly Tox, used as directed, fills the room with a perfumed mist at a cost of only 1 or 2 cents. That mist is harmless to people, stainless to anything. But every fly or mosquito that it touches dies at once. And they can't escape it when the room is filled.

These pests are deadly, for they carry the germs of over 30 diseases. They deposit those germs on foods or in blood streams. Many thousands of children die every year from this cause. Fly Tox rightly used, frees your home and keeps it free, in an easy, certain, economical way.

Think what that means to you and yours.

FLY-TOX ONLY

A Rex Research Product

Use Fly Tox only and always in a new type Fly Tox sprayer. Every lot is tested on flies in our laboratory. The efficiency is guaranteed. The odor is pleasant, the extra strength makes it very economical. Use it because nothing is too good for the safety of your home. Go get it today—it's sold everywhere. Harmless to people. Stainless. Made by the Makers of Moth Tox.

New-Type Sprayer

FREE

Retail Value, 40c

Fly Tox should be used in the new type Fly Tox sprayer. A new invention perfected for Rex Research.

This sprayer creates a floating mist instead of tiny drops which fall. The mist permeates the room like a cloud of steam. Thus it reaches every insect, high or low. Old type sprayers fail to do that.

Each plunge of the Fly Tox sprayer sends out 150 000 particles of mist. A few plunges fill a room at a cost of only 1 or 2 cents. This Fly Tox goes several times as far.

This is so important that we gladly give this new type sprayer to anyone intending to use Fly Tox. Just mail the coupon for it. But this new type sprayer can be used with Fly Tox and Moth Tox only. Clip coupon now.

THE FAMOUS RIDING HANNEFORDS

Tomorrow, the circus grounds, Fairground street and Greenwood street, will be a popular spot. Soon after daylight the great canvas city that houses the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus will spring into being and once again people of Marion will be able to witness this famous aggregation of attractions.

The cook house will be set up first, the mammoth stoves and heaters will be stoked and a bountiful hot meal will be waiting the canvasmen and others at the proper time.

Among the outstanding features of the show is Clyde Beatty, world's greatest wild animal conjurer. Another is Poodles Hanneford, famous comique of the sawdust ring, and family of noted bareback riders. There will be herds of performing elephants and numerous thrilling and breath-taking wild animal acts. Hundreds of horses and riders both male and female. There will be a maze of aerial displays and ten dozens of huge acts on the spacious stages, in the rings and around the Hippodrome track.

In the newly enlarged menagerie many strange beasts and birds will be seen, including a number of "babies." A two weeks old camel and a host of monkey children, also three baby pachyderms and a baby lion just emerging from the fondling class.

Cincinnati and Youngstown Show June Conditions Better Than May

By The Associated Press

In Cleveland, Dayton, Toledo and Canton, however, there were further declines in June amounting to one per cent in Cleveland and Toledo, four per cent in Dayton and seven per cent in Canton. As compared with June a year ago, however, total employment declined in all the chief cities of the state ranging from 10 per cent in Akron to 37 per cent in Canton.

NEW TRIAL ORDERED BY DISTRICT COURT

[illegible] the right to participate in [illegible] compensation fund for the death of her husband, alleged to [illegible] the result of an industrial accident.

INTRODUCING "JERRY"

Since July 1927 the Low Price Filling Station has saved the motorists in Marion and vicinity many thousands of dollars.

Every effort has been made to drive this station out of business or force us to advance our price.

First we had price wars and now it is third grade gasoline and second grade lubricating oil.

Selling direct from tank cars and by eliminating tank wagon service and dealer's discounts we can sell better products for less money.

You can help keep down prices by patronizing this station for as our sales go up our prices come down.

C. F. (JERRY) DOMINY, MGR.

Under the able management of Mr. Jerry Dominy the Low Price Filling Station will make every effort to meet the needs of our customers.

When this station opened in July 1927 with a price of 15 cents we were paying a 2 cent tax making the price 13 cents plus tax.

Today we are selling gasoline at 16 cents with a 5 cent tax making the price 11 cents plus tax.

We have reduced our price on 100% Pure Pennsylvania lubricating oil from 15 cents to 10 cents per quart.

We pledge ourselves to continue to give lower prices if increased volume or lower costs will enable us to do so.

Dear Sir—

I trust that you will pardon me for bringing the following question to you in this manner and at this time.

It was my privilege one day this week to look over a sketch of your proposed building to be erected just north of your Filling Station on East Center Street, I am glad to know that you have in mind to make this improvement it will be of much benefit to you and a credit to the community.

My chief object in writing to you is this: We have several good and reliable contractors here in Marion, and owing to the labor conditions of our City, the great number that the City have to feed and keep warm as well as other necessities that have to be furnished them, we will appreciate it, if you can see your way clear to place this contract with one of our contractors and builders, so that there will be no question but that Marion labor will be used in this construction.

Of course it is barely possible that some one contractor, other then the Marion men, may give you a somewhat better figure, but a few dollars more or less will not hurt you, when you take into consideration the moral effect that for you to patronize our people, will have for you and in your favor.

Your Architect, Mr. Moore, is well acquainted with the contractors here in Marion and can and will be glad to tell you just what they are and what they can and will do for you, their responsibilities, reliabilities, etc.

I trust that you will appreciate my position and my purpose in writing to you in this manner, but our City surely needs all that our people can and will do for us.

Thanking you in advance for any consideration that you will give our City and its people, I am

Yours very truly,

Dear Mr. Phillians:

It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge yours of the 6th and assure you that my object in improving the Low Price Filling Station at this time is two-fold. First, to enable us to better serve our customers and second, to do so at a time when the employment of labor will help alleviate the employment situation.

You can rest assured that we will not only use local labor but will purchase all materials possible to obtain in Marion.

The writer wants to express his appreciation for the many courtesies shown me by the different executives in Marion, as I have always found them anxious to cooperate with me to the fullest extent.

I feel that I would not only be amiss in my duty but would show a lack of appreciation of my obligation to the people of Marion were I to do other than to comply with all the suggestions which you have made in your letter, and while I had no other intentions, it is certainly refreshing to find a man at the head of the affairs of a municipality showing the interest you have shown in this affair.

Very truly yours,

Mayor Walker's Case

Mayor James J. Walker [illegible] his place in the Democratic convention to cast a defiant vote for Alfred E. Smith. Mayor Walker [illegible] in New York city [illegible] the press that he will vote for [illegible] regardless of any action the governor may take toward removing him from office. Like Mr. Smith the mayor is first of all a good Democrat.

His case has become a national political issue with the ascendancy of his state's governor as a presidential nominee. When Judge Seabury made it plain by his examination of Mayor Walker on the witness stand that the latter could not explain clearly how he came by many thousands of dollars of his personal fortune the question was asked immediately: Will the governor remove him from office?

The political consideration involved then was the danger of antagonizing Tammany hall by open hostility to the mayor and losing the confidence of independent Democrats by failure to condemn a man who public opinion outside New York held had invited suspicion by his inability to clear himself of suspicion.

Governor Roosevelt sidestepped that political tangle however by a maneuver which was no less fortunate because it happened to be acknowledged as fair. He ordered Mayor Walker to reply to charges made by Judge Seabury. And the matter stood that way through the convention. The assistance of Tammany hall wasn't given to the governor; neither was Mr. Walker's.

The political consideration involved now is virtually the same but more important. It is a candidate for the presidency instead of a candidate for the Democratic nomination who must decide the Walker case. In 48 states people are waiting to see whether Franklin D. Roosevelt will be caught in what is acknowledged to be one of the most baffling traps that ever held a politician. If true to his published conception of duty nothing but the mayor's own qualifications for jobs of the nation's largest city will be considered by the governor.

Formation of the Battle Lines.

Within the last few weeks the contending camps on the prohibition issue have been stirred into unusual activity. Of them all that one occupied by unrelenting drys is marked most plainly by confusion. Liberal action by both political parties on the issue has left them with no sponsor. New battle lines must be formed and a new campaign mapped.

Fortunately, there has been a virtual disappearance of the former tendency to argue prohibition in terms of theory. Animated by the youthful intensity of the wets discussion has come to be marked by straightforwardness. There is a better grasp of the factors involved in the problem of [illegible] prohibition today than ever before.

Among these factors one stands out above the rest. It is the ascendancy of drys in congress, the source of legislative action. As battle lines form it is plain that drys will concentrate their forces in this quarter. Having lost control of the parties they will attempt to retain a hold on individual congressmen. A curious twist of [illegible] is expected to be a feature of this program.

It is predicted that where two [illegible] are pitted against each other dry strategians will switch their support to an outright repealist on the theory that neither moderate wets nor moderate drys will sanction repeal. Resubmission on the other hand can be made attractive to them. Therefore resubmissionists must be kept out of congress at any cost. Drys never have been accused of being stupid [illegible] [illegible] facing them now call for their best efforts.

There is little [illegible] that there will be any [illegible] period of inactivity until such time as important readjustment is made in the prohibition situation. The next session of congress may [illegible] drys will [illegible] by many [illegible]. Modification of the Volstead act will be up for consideration. There will be a pitched battle over the wording of an amendment to be submitted to state conventions. If the depression has [illegible] very probably will be a prohibition session.

One possibility should not be overlooked [illegible] the prospect. It is in fact [illegible] that the same bandwagon rapidly [illegible] the Democratic presidential nomination to Franklin D. Roosevelt will be an important factor [illegible] the prohibition issue. Dozens of representatives [illegible] drys can be expected to turn wet at the first sign that political salvation lies in that direction. Similarly it is difficult to take seriously the [illegible] argument that 13 states will be willing to [illegible] acceptance of an amendment altering the [illegible] of the 18th amendment. At least one of these would decide as individuals in a group always decide that the will of the majority, [illegible] majority can be found for alteration of the 18th amendment, should not be denied in a democratic government.

End of an Incident.

[illegible] Manchuria [illegible] the attitude of [illegible] prepared to make [illegible] [illegible] international [illegible] was known [illegible] the chief characteristic of the [illegible] Japanese [illegible] to get an [illegible] out of [illegible] the United States has [illegible]

[illegible] interesting to recall the [illegible] the personification [illegible] Theodore [illegible] commenting on [illegible]

[illegible] position [illegible] and as regards Manchuria [illegible] continue to [illegible] which we are at [illegible] we are prepared to go to war [illegible] powerful war about Manchuria [illegible] as that of [illegible] as that of Germany. The Open Door policy in China was an [illegible] it will be a good thing [illegible] it can be maintained by general diplomatic agreement but as has been proved by the whole history of Manchuria alike under Russia and under Japan the Open Door policy [illegible] completely disappears [illegible] determines to disregard it and is willing to run the risk of war rather than forego its intention.

A few months' consideration of the Japanese [illegible] strenuous minds has convinced [illegible] that it is high folly for the [illegible] When they consider their own expansion unhampered by hostile neighbors [illegible] the Japanese—65 million of them [illegible] an area of 150,000 square miles—[illegible] distinctly unfair. Or if they look at the matter as the practical Roosevelt did there [illegible] nothing in the Japanese program of expansion [illegible] demand war. Manchuria is a matter of life and death to Japan. It is only a potentially wealthy market to the United States.

As the end of the incident which occupied so much attention earlier in the year approaches it is well for Americans to grasp understanding of their state department's policy concerning Japanese expansion. There will be other incidents equally if not more important than the one which will be closed so far as actual developments are concerned with recognition of Manchukuo by Japan.

That policy briefly described is one of stubborn retreat before relentless forces. It would have been possible in the past to have gone to war or it would have been possible to have given in with a show of support for the Japanese program. The United States has done neither. It has held a middle course, giving in when and where necessary, but making it plainly evident at all times that Japan as its economic rival in the far east will have to look sharp at every turn. It is a policy of watchful waiting—a policy of realism thoroughly consistent with the new tone of international diplomacy.

Faster and Faster.

How fast can a man run 100 yards?

In the United States, home of the world's fastest sprinters, the question has had a new answer every season. Records have been clipped and shaved with almost monotonous regularity. But a new factor was introduced during the course of the annual Intercollegiate A. A. A. championships at Berkeley, Cal., last Saturday.

Frank Wykoff, the nation's best chance for an Olympic victory in the 100 yards, ran his race in 9.6 seconds, scarcely fast enough to lead the field in a high school meet. Therein lies a story which as one commentator aptly has pointed out, may put 10 second [illegible] back on the gold standard.

Before the race stop watches to be used by timing officials were checked to a point of accuracy never reached before. Runners were clocked from the time their feet left the starting marks, a flat start, instead of a rolling start in which a fast starter beats the gun and picks up a tenth of a second or more before the race is started.

Under those conditions Wykoff, who has been timed in 9.4 seconds for 100 yards, was able only to shade 10 seconds flat. Everything was favorable to his best race. Did he run it? Have his own and other phenomenal records for the event been due to fast watches instead of fast sprinters?

A bitter dispute on the question is in prospect until it is settled—and it probably won't be. The American public assured up to now that the feat of covering 100 yards in less than nine and a half seconds will be incredulous. The [illegible] the [illegible] and the Wykoffs [illegible] their day. In turn they were the world's fastest humans. Nothing can happen to take that distinction away from them. Perhaps they were not quite so superhuman however as their records indicated.

Perhaps Job Had Neuralgia

One of the sweetest of all promises is recorded in Revelation where John the Divine describes what he saw in the new heaven and the new earth. "God shall wipe away the tears," he says; "neither shall there be any more pain."

Pain is the curse of mankind. Mental pain, physical pain—it matters not—destroys happiness. "Man is born unto trouble as the sparks fly upward," said poor old Job, and he knew all about it. Of all man's trouble, pain comes first.

We get our pains through our nerves, the telegraph wires that notify us of our ailments. The pain may be due to trouble in the nerve itself. That sort of pain is called neuralgia or neuritis, if there is actual inflammation of the nerve.

In neuralgia there is no swelling or other sign of inflammation, no fever and usually no sensitiveness to pressure. There is localized pain, perhaps, or there may be vague and scattered symptoms of discomfort.

In neuritis the pain may be like that caused by neuralgia, but on pressure or even light touch the pain is greatly increased. There is likely to be loss of function of the part involved, and sometimes there is more or less fever.

It must be kept in mind that pain may be reflex in its nature. The seat of trouble may be some where else than in the spot where it seems to be located. For example, there may be pain in the sole of the foot when its exciting cause is in the middle of the body.

There are special forms of neuralgia. For instance when the pain is in the forehead or elsewhere in the head it is called headache. Yet there may not be a thing wrong with the brain, its covering, the bones of the head or with the [illegible]. In all the pain may be due [illegible] from indigestion, localized infection, excessive fatigue or some other general cause.

"[illegible] a thing I want you to remember. Neuralgia in any one of its special forms may result from anemia. If the blood is impoverished it can not supply the nourishment required for normal health and function. One authority has [illegible] of this painful symptom: "Neuralgia is the cry of a nerve for more or better blood."

But pain is not a symptom in every case of anemia. Many patients suffer from poor blood because of the absorption of toxins from some sort of body poisoning. When there is neuralgia it is important that the blood be enriched and purified. Some cases can make no progress towards a cure until cod liver oil, iron or other addition to the diet supplies what the blood lacks. Then the neuralgia headache [illegible] but not disappears as if [illegible]

It was Tuesday, July 11, 1922.

In a statement issued to the nation's budgetmakers, President Harding repeated a previous warning that they would have to use their pruning knives for the purpose of bringing about the utmost economy in government expense. "Our country is one of the few in the world which is now paying its way as it goes and I must regard with disfavor any tendency to interfere with this condition or to increase taxes," the President said.

STANTON AND THE NOVEL.

General Dan Sickles was instrumental in inducing Edwin M. Stanton to dispel [illegible] his mind of his prejudice [illegible] literature. Stanton of Quaker parentage considered an unfounded story no better than a lie.

But General Sickles was detained on a law case in Pittsburgh at one time and he and Stanton became friends.

In conversation the general found Stanton well read in almost every field except the novels. Stanton frankly admitted he had never read a novel and ventured that he had lost nothing.

Stanton finally agreed to read two of General Sickels's novels however and a short time later he wrote thanking Sickles for the pleasure the books had given him and asking him if he had any more. He had found them restful to his mind after hard application in the office. [illegible] he read fiction thereafter all his life—though he never became a voracious reader of that kind of literature.

POSTSCRIPTS TO LOVE

When a man declares nobly that making love to you wouldn't be fair, he really means, darling, that it wouldn't be safe. Especially if you are attractive—and he is single.

Woman has been so fed up on applesauce and hot air that she has almost lost her appetite for them and has put in her order for a little substantial understanding and a full portion of honest appreciation.

One compensation for being an old fashioned woman was that she could scream, cry, moan, faint or whimper without feeling that she had been guilty of immodest exposure of the emotions. But a modern girl would never be so effeminate as to use a man's shoulder for anything but petting.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Does Not Forget Mary's Devotion to Noel and Becomes Aide to Cupid

MARY looked up plainly startled at my father's announcement that she was going to "hold the bridge" for us while we were gathered at Whitney Hall for the conference over our projected rescue of Marion and Carolyn, but the next instance she was answering him with ready, poised acquiescence.

"I'll do anything you wish," she said. "But please tell me exactly what you want so that I'll make no mistakes."

"You won't make any mistakes," Harry Underwood told her admiringly. I saw Philip Veritzen send a quick veiled glance at her and wondered what lay behind that inscrutable look. Was his disapproval of his son's fiancee as strong as ever or was he beginning to admit reluctant admiration for her into his heart?

"Thank you," Mary said quietly, and then my father's voice called us all to attention.

His Instructions

"I think it will be wiser for you women to pretend to lie down until about a quarter to eleven. Then you, Margaret, with Lillian and Harry, come over to the hotel as soon as you can do so without the Brixtons noticing your exit. If you are late I shall understand. It won't matter. In the meantime Richard, Mr. Veritzen will go along over to the school and get in touch with Hugh. And now, Mary."

The girl flung up her head as if she were a high-spirited colt touched with a towel.

"Yes?" she said.

"When they have gone you will lay awake and on watch in Mrs. Underwood's room. If Mrs. Brixton asks for Mrs. Underwood tell her that Mr. Underwood has taken his wife for a drive because she was so nervous she could not sleep, but that you expect her back any minute. Stipulate, however, that they may stay out much longer. Watch their movements carefully. If they leave the hotel telephone the school at once."

"I understand," Mary said quietly, and indeed her attentive face and brilliant eyes had told us that without speech.

"Good-by, then, for awhile," my father said, and with Dicky and Phillip Veritzen he left us. Harry Underwood caught his wife by the hands and pulled her to her feet as soon as they had left.

"Forty winks for you if it can be managed," he said, then at her protesting face he amended, "at least a stretching out and complete relaxation. Mary will let us know when it's half after ten."

"I'll keep watch," Mary [illegible] [illegible] but as soon as they were out of the room I slipped my arm around her.

"I happen to be feeling especially fit," I told her truthfully, "and you'll have that vigil after we leave, so I'm going to stay on watch for the Brixtons until half past ten. Would you like to lie down until then? Or there are some magazines in the downstairs sitting room that you might like to inspect. You may take your choice. You must do one or the other."

Her eyes were suddenly dancing.

"You darling," she said. "Noel will probably plait you a wreath of laurel for this, but I'm afraid his dad would throw no bouquets at you if he could hear your offer."

"Probably not," I told her, "but we're not bringing him into the picture at all. So run along, but come upstairs again a little before ten thirty."

Madge on Guard

"I'll be here," she said, and after a brief session with lipstick and powder puff, which she distinctly did not need, she went out of the room, a vision to delight the heart of a swain far less adoring than Noel.

When she had gone I set my door cautiously ajar, put my motor coat, hat, purse and gloves where I could snatch them up at a moment's notice, then putting my reading lamp where I could get its light and at the same time watch the corridor, I sat down with a book, apparently absorbed in reading, but with my eyes upon the corridor.

I did not know what my father expected, but I knew that he meant us to watch carefully the movements of the Brixtons when he was in charge, and I resolved that not even a mouse should come out of hiding, or brush a foot, without my seeing it.

Someone Is Coming

For half an hour there was no sound in our upper corridor but the turning of the pages of my book, then a stealthy creaking made me raise my book suddenly nearer my eyes so that I might peer over it without raising my eyelashes.

The door of the Brixton room was moving ever so slowly. Then it stopped abruptly and I knew that whoever was moving it had seen me through my open door. For a half minute I kept my eyes upon the pages before me, apparently oblivious of everything else. Then the Brixton door closed and heavy steps came down the corridor toward me.

DISSENTERS CALLED BY THIRD PARTIES

New Political Groups Spring Up as Protest Against Regulars.

been the Prohibition party which blossomed into new life at Indianapolis.

To record a resounding anti-wet protest it sought the leadership of Senator Borah of Idaho and the support of the big dry organizations. Neither materialized immediately so the party offers as its presidential candidate William D. Upshaw, ex-congressman and dry lecturer from Georgia.

Two other groups aspiring to independent leadership pitch their platforms on economic grounds, both left-wing, liberal or radical depending on the point of view.

The Liberty party, claiming to be a fusion of Farmer Labor, Progressive and Socialist parties, the Monetary league and the Farmers Union, put forward in Kansas City July 5 a ticket headed by Frank Eldridge Webb of California, the Farmer Labor candidate of 1928. Jacob S. Coxey, W. H. Coin Harvey and such men are leading figures in the party's activity.

The Farmer Labor party executive committee, though, in an Omaha meeting yesterday disavowed the action of the Liberals, rejecting Webb's nomination and selecting Coxey. So the Liberal party's fusion did not fuse so well.

Thomas Indorsed

Third of the big third parties, the League for Independent Political Action, held its convention in Cleveland this week end. Brain child of John Dewey, New York philosopher and constant champion of better conditions for labor, public control of utilities, international levelling of tariff walls, civil liberty, disarmament and such causes, the movement centered on a definite platform.

It gave its qualified indorsement however to Norman E. Thomas, the initial choice of the Socialist party.

Besides these three groups the Communist Workers party offers again William Z. Foster, recipient of nearly 50,000 votes in the last election. The Socialist Labor party puts forward Verne L. Reynolds, one time steamfitter.

Many other lesser groups are in the field again this year with labor, industrial, national and similar labels to identify them.

WOULD ABOLISH PAY FOR BOARDS

By The Associated Press

On roofs, chimney stacks, balconies, windows and packed into a compact mass of humanity in the streets, part of the congregation of over one million people that attended the Eucharistic congress in Dublin is shown in the vicinity of O'Connell Bridge to participate in the Papal benediction that concluded the great festival. Simple Remedies Effective In Keeping Body Free from Odor

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

EXCESSIVE perspiration is a menace to charm which many women must combat and the continued application of deodorants is not recommended.

The feet especially are inclined to excessive perspiration. The large number of sweat glands which open onto the skin covering the soles of the feet, together with air proof footwear, are largely responsible for this undesirable condition.

The first corrective for excessive perspiration of the feet after bathing is to realize that a condition exists which requires remedial attention as well as soap and water. The remedies for this condition are simple.

A solution of ordinary household powdered borax will eliminate offensive odors from any part of the body. Ordinary baking soda will do the same.

The addition of a teacupful of borax or baking soda added to the average tub of bath water will keep the body fragrant.

For a foot bath only add one half a cup of either preparation to two gallons of warm water and soak the feet in this solution for five minutes.

The Finish Treatment

As a finish treatment for either the feet or body generally, sponge a little rubbing alcohol over the skin. If the feet have suffered from excessive perspiration for a long time and the skin peels, rub a little cocoa butter, olive oil or mineral oil over them as soon as they have been dried after the borax or baking soda bath. Let the ointment remain on for a few minutes, then sponge rubbing alcohol or witch hazel over the feet.

The Faithful Cheat

BY RUBY M. AYRES

[illegible] Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER ONE

[illegible] Man

FROM where she sat in the stage box between her sister and her sister's husband Sondra could see the two men whenever the lights went [illegible]

[illegible] dazzling [illegible] in the [illegible] orchestra was [illegible] when he did [illegible] interested in the [illegible] the woman Mark Merriman [illegible] row of the [illegible] eyes on the [illegible] turned so [illegible] Sondra sat.

[illegible] nervous undecided, [illegible] over the question of [illegible] Flora beside her [illegible] the play and [illegible] audience and [illegible] snored peacefully [illegible] the curtains

The lights went up [illegible] Sondra looked [illegible] John Anderson [illegible] went down [illegible] of Mark and wondered hope[illegible] should be possi[illegible] so very much for [illegible] she quite deter[illegible] nothing on earth [illegible] induce her to mar[illegible]

[illegible] was 28 good look[illegible] optimistic and [illegible] future even [illegible] than her own [illegible] he had nothing be[illegible] personality to guar[illegible] a prominent place [illegible] line of candidates [illegible] were waiting at [illegible] the future hoping [illegible] something good to turn up [illegible] Anderson was rich [illegible] 47 and both men [illegible]

[illegible] of them had said so [illegible] words for Ander[illegible] married man long [illegible] A wife who [illegible] divorce him and [illegible] had nothing but his [illegible] offer her

[illegible] was not a senti[illegible] who believed that [illegible] mattered if only one [illegible] enough for he had [illegible] up in middle class [illegible] himself and hated it [illegible] less than Sondra

[illegible] watched his parents [illegible] themselves almost of[illegible] in order to give him [illegible] education and then [illegible] half a dozen years of [illegible] to turn his father's [illegible] and inefficient firm into [illegible] concern he had [illegible] that father die a [illegible] disappointed man and [illegible] himself face to face [illegible] fire

[illegible] had been quite frank to Sondra.

"[illegible] little there is left out [illegible] will be mothers of [illegible] and I might as well try [illegible] in some other coun[illegible]

"[illegible] you think it will be [illegible] any other country [illegible] is in America?" she had [illegible] him "Aren't things [illegible] much the same every[illegible] unless you have money [illegible] ence?"

[illegible] had seen his eyes cloud [illegible] had hated herself for [illegible] cynicism as he answered "I'm afraid I haven't money or influence but [illegible] brain and muscle are of [illegible] I ought to stand a [illegible]"

[illegible] then that he had men[illegible] John Anderson half rue[illegible] utterly without hope [illegible] some fellow like [illegible] would take a fancy and send me to one of [illegible] in the Congo I half [illegible] of approaching him [illegible] he's got dozens [illegible] like me hanging [illegible] ready and we're only [illegible] acquaintances"

[illegible] had been silent for a [illegible] before she answered

"[illegible] Anderson is rather a [illegible] mine"

[illegible] but all the same— [illegible] he had shrugged his [illegible] and changed the sub[illegible]

[illegible] in the box this [illegible] the balcony and [illegible] cheered themselves [illegible] or a musical comedy Sondra remembered

[illegible] was indeed quite [illegible] of hers she wondered what Merriman would [illegible] He knew how great a [illegible] Anderson had proved [illegible] the thousand and [illegible] in which a wealthy [illegible] befriend a penniless [illegible] would be furious of [illegible] the way that some [illegible] furious with women [illegible] extravagant presents [illegible] who are not related

[illegible] and glanced at [illegible] scrutinizing the [illegible] through her [illegible] the picture of com[illegible] prosperity and self[illegible]

[illegible] their father an [illegible] optimistic Irish[illegible] with a chuckle [illegible] know what's to be some of you who can't. If you can't marry [illegible] a husband [illegible] making [illegible] God help [illegible]

When Flora had so [illegible] her husband [illegible] Lomax was [illegible] he was rich enough [illegible] generous with his [illegible] and abominably mean with everyone else

Sondra knew that she herself was only allowed in [illegible] with them because of Flora's [illegible] and [illegible] would be [illegible] day [illegible] be safe and secu[illegible] married

She thought of her father [illegible] with a queer pang

She had disapproved of him and yet there had been something about him that one could not help loving

He had been his own worst enemy. He had once had more than his share of good fortune and had thrown it carelessly away with both generous hands dying with a dollar in his pocket and a [illegible] on his desk an optimist to the end

[illegible] he [illegible] always [illegible] to her "With that face of yours you could marry any man you chose—only take care you

[illegible] Lomax although [illegible] keep [illegible] was [illegible] Mark [illegible] she was [illegible] he was [illegible] she would [illegible] have married [illegible] were a good [illegible] could not be [illegible] came [illegible] up [illegible] and [illegible] leaned [illegible] her husband [illegible] he said impatiently [illegible] came to [illegible] hair and [illegible] big arms in [illegible] at her face with blinking eyes

Sondra met Mark's eyes steadily betraying nothing of what she felt choose one with money"

Sondra had reminded him that men with money were often very unlovable people

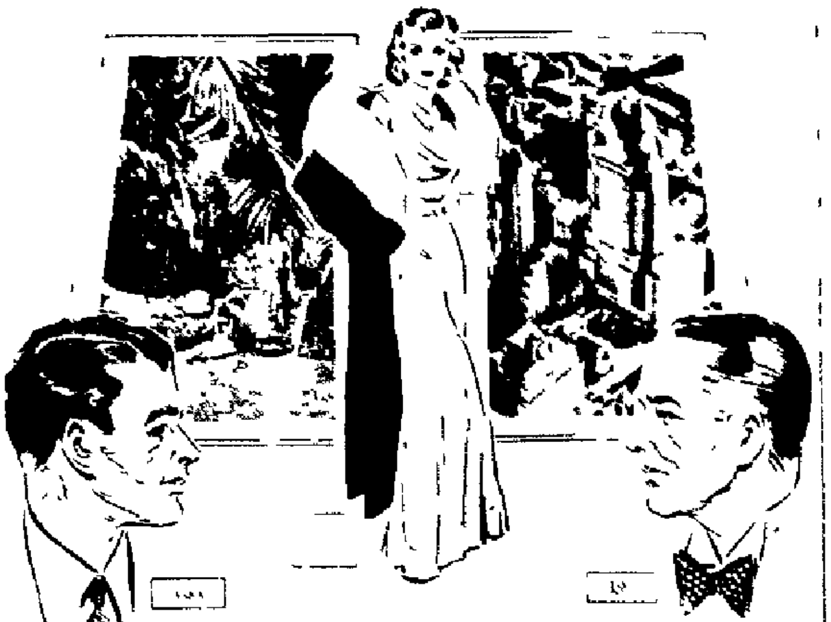
The old man had been scornful

"What's love got to do with it?" he demanded "Marriage

then mechanically he began to clap

"[illegible] very good" he said vaguely regardless of the fact that he had heard no more than the opening chorus

"Put your tie straight and let's get out before the crowd"



his wife said [illegible] the way out of the box

Sondra followed her [illegible] dragging her wrap about her shoulders

She was so tired of everything glancing at her sister's face she wondered if Flora ever felt the same

Good looking [illegible] had called the[illegible]

[illegible] that was true enough she [illegible] catching sight of their two reflections in a long mirror They were very much alike except that Flora was darker harder looking somehow There was something about the almost insolent beauty of her face that [illegible] as if she had met life [illegible] and got the better of it to her own tragic detriment Her laugh had an artificial note in [illegible] and her voice was sharper [illegible] than before she was married and yet Ben Lomax [illegible] her as Sondra knew well and only shut his eyes to her impatience and indifference because he was mortally afraid that if he ever [illegible] she would walk out of his life

A block [illegible] the crowd brought them to a momentary standstill and Sondra [illegible] at her own reflection

She was smaller than Flora lighter with [illegible] eyes in [illegible] of [illegible] hair that fell naturally into long loose waves and a mouth curved in rather discontented lines

The crowd parted a little and moved on and Sondra found John Anderson beside her

CHAPTER TWO

[illegible] for Purgatory

"ARE you going on to the Caspers?" Anderson [illegible]

[illegible] met his eyes [illegible]

"[illegible] are so" she said

"[illegible] meet there then"

He [illegible] away and joined [illegible] who had [illegible] by his [illegible] he [illegible] she had [illegible] frigidly to Sondra [illegible] laughed as she [illegible]

"[illegible] that woman hates me" she said

"What woman?" Flora [illegible]

"[illegible] Anderson's sister"

"[illegible] women are cats" Flora [illegible]

They [illegible] a little to one [illegible] from the crowd [illegible] fought his way [illegible]

Sondra's eyes were eagerly [illegible] for Mark Merriman [illegible] come and speak to [illegible] far as she could see he [illegible] been alone in the theatre

Then [illegible] she saw him making his way to her side

"How are you?"

He did not take her hand he just looked at her steadily with the only eyes that had ever made her heart turn over, ever made her so happy that she felt she could cry

Her sister had always said that love was merely an hysterical kind of illness

"I'm [illegible] well thanks" she said

Her [illegible] was [illegible] nothing [illegible]

[illegible]

"I see" His eyes were a little wistful now "Well I'll say good night"

"Good night"

She [illegible] up the [illegible] the [illegible]

[illegible] all the way to the Caspers

"Did you see that dreadful Mrs Singer making eyes at young Bathurst as usual? What the men see in that woman passes my comprehension And the appalling frock she was wearing Where in the world does she buy her clothes

"And now I suppose we've got to be bored for another couple of hours How well

[illegible] the Caspers [illegible] Mark Merriman [illegible] He was very [illegible]

[illegible] them into the [illegible] He had been [illegible] to Flora for [illegible] He had never [illegible] attention to her [illegible]

The [illegible] house [illegible] looking [illegible] with an awning and a [illegible] down to [illegible]

"[illegible] for purgatory" [illegible] said "Ben I do wish you would [illegible]

[illegible] waiting while her sister shook [illegible] imaginary [illegible] from her skirt she was used to [illegible] the daily bickerings and she asked [illegible] that as a rule she [illegible] heard [illegible] but tonight [illegible] added to her soul weariness

[illegible] she [illegible] get away from it all She was just as [illegible] her sister's [illegible] for her to [illegible] and yet how?

She had no money and nowhere else to go and as their father had once said "If ever either of them tried to be useful Heaven help them" As if they were to blame They had never been taught to be useful [illegible] to make themselves attractive

[illegible] swept up the steps to

"I was watching you in the theater tonight You looked unhappy" John told Sondra

ly He was always trying to join in his wife's conversation [illegible] of the [illegible] of times [illegible] snubbed him for the attempt he always rebuked [illegible] Sondra of an outcast [illegible] lonely [illegible] someone's heels [illegible] for a kind word

"I always liked him" he added

"I could think he'd be delighted to hear that" his wife said with sarcasm

The little man winced and the house and her husband and Sondra followed

This was her life Sondra thought this eternal sweeping in and out of other people's houses [illegible] to bed [illegible] night [illegible] getting up again to face another day just as monotonous and uninteresting

Was it all she was ever to know?

CHAPTER THIRTY SIX

"LISTEN you little fighting cock" Emory said hitching himself closer to the other "There's only one thing that'll keep me from kicking off with a smile on my face"

"And that is?" invited Ashwood quietly

"I'm so curious about you that I'm itching all over Since we'll probably both be bounced off in the next twenty minutes won't you tell me what turned you from a good drinking partner as you were back in London to a hard boiled egg such as you are now?"

The cripple glanced over the table top then turned his vivid blue eyes toward Emory

"I owe you something" he acknowledged slowly "so I suppose I may as well tell you Forgive me if I spare you the details I'm an American Enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps in Canada Sometime before I ran across you in London I met a girl who drove an ambulance for the Overseas club Saw quite a bit of her Asked her to marry me Two nights after that evening of ours which ended in the fight with the military police she stole some important papers from the pocket of my [illegible]

"Some days after she took the papers a British push was smashed to bits by the Germans My fault you see On the same day a German Fokker crocked me over the lines Our men hoisted the engine off my leg and took me to the hospital But that didn't prevent them from cashiering me At the trial they blamed me for other things—things I hadn't done I felt so low that I guess I didn't put up a decent defense Spent a year in the Tower of London expecting to be shot any day Six months after the armistice I was pardoned My friends had forgotten me but had remembered to drop my name from my clubs

"I drifted about like a pariah. Needed excitement. Had no respect for justice hence none for the law that administered it. War taught me the real value of human life, which is less than nothing. Turned to crime for excitement and to keep me off the benches on the Thames embankment Played the 'Lone Wolf' racket for a while Came back to America Saw [illegible] some of the Chicago gangs that were just beginning to lift their heads a possibility for organized crime that would be highly diverting and exceedingly profitable I recruited my own mob who by the way are beginning their at[illegible]ack"

He turned abruptly and fired three shots as fast as he could pull the trigger Emory getting into action saw two men stumble and fall

The battle became general but to Emory it was a matter of himself alone against half a dozen He was conscious that the fighting was sweeping toward and around the house like a prairie fire That was incidental The only matter of importance was his own individual effort to keep that little group of men from reaching the porch The leader charged desperately zigzagging as he galloped ahead of his comrades Emory wished to stand up and shoot it out with him but from the shelter of the palms the machine gun sprayed his window with bullets It was almost suicidal even to raise his head for a quick pot shot

A dozen more steps and that chap with the contorted face and staring eyes would be able to dodge behind the overwhelming ledge of the porch Now! Emory's gun smacked against the palm of his hand The fellow crashed full against the porch

Emory heard Mallory cursing in a monotone on and on endlessly flatly interrupted only by the heavy bark of his automatic Ashwood was silent his mouth set in a twisted grin firing slowly carefully wasting not a single shot

Running men were falling in the sand some to get up and resume the charge others to drag themselves away The two machine-guns hammered relentlessly monotonously Their whining bullets irritated Emory like persistent mosquitoes on a hot sleepless night. It would be he thought, those two machine guns that would eventually turn the tide of battle against the defenders Their slugs spattered through the thin sides of the house Only the heavy barricades stopped them

He glanced again at Ashwood. The cripple grinned, pointed at his automatic, then to a scattering of empty shells and held up three fingers Three shots left. Emory had lost count of his own. He only remembered that he had used most of his last clip Suddenly his ears became attuned to a new note in the battle. He had been hearing it for some time but it had not penetrated into his consciousness That throbbing vibrant beat—an airplane engine of course

He listened again The monoplane No mistaking that uneven pulsing drone

"Whoops" he shouted above the din of fight "The plane's coming Jerry and Steve"

He looked back at his window A man stood there framed in the splintered sash crouched face distorted into a mask of frenzy his revolver foreshortened into an ugly round hole as it pointed straight at Emory's head The flyer braced himself for the impact of the bullet His own gun was swinging upward with the speed of light but he knew he would be too late He could see the forefinger tighten on the trigger Then suddenly the man pitched over on top of him Emory squirmed from under glancing wonderingly at the cripple

Ashwood winked at him

"Now we're even" he called

"Much obliged old top" roared Emory but the other seemed not to hear He was using his last remaining shot to stop a man who would have reached the barricade in another five steps

Above the all pervading roar of the airplane engine Emory could hear the steady hammering of his machine gun Then he saw the plane as it dived through his range of vision For an instant he thought it was falling that it would crash headlong into the clump of palms which sheltered the nearest enemy machine gun But just as the propeller seemed about to cut a swath through the leaves the nose lifted and the plane zoomed clear up and up until whirling around on one wing tip it dropped again to the attack

CHAPTER THIRTY SEVEN

A Mysterious Letter

THE hidden machine gun became silent

The ground in front of the house seemed magically cleared of running men

The plane dived at the tree behind which the second machine-gun had been mounted

Ashwood rose slipped his hot automatic into his shoulder holster and stretched glancing about the room. Then the hard lines reappeared in his face as he glanced toward the far end of the room Emory, getting to his feet, saw Alfred, the faithful little steward lying motionless

Ashwood limped across the room looked down into the lifeless face for a long moment and turned away

"Let's pass out a round of grog Alfie" suggested Emory "I think we've earned it"

[illegible] pulled his [illegible] plate aside with a sigh of complete [illegible]

He grinned comfortably at Nancy who looked adorable in her [illegible] cook's costume

[illegible] he wandered to the door of the [illegible] a scene of desolation [illegible] from the battle it had been [illegible] forget the splintered wal[illegible]

"[illegible] here last night" [illegible] "See you late"

"There [illegible]" Jerry thoughtfully [illegible] man

"He's had [illegible] the past few days [illegible] Ashwood smiling [illegible] than he's had in ten years"

"If you'll excuse me" said Emory rising "I'm going to find a desk and write a letter"

"I'll see [illegible] if the boys have cleaned [illegible] properly" decided the cripple "Want [illegible] along you two?" He [illegible] at Mallory and Martin [illegible] that they started guiltily from their chairs and followed him [illegible] Then suddenly Mallory returned

"Here" he said to Nancy "Give these to the [illegible] let him thank us"

"Look at these" she [illegible] and passed them to Jerry

They were two checks for $[illegible] each drawn [illegible] to the order of Dr [illegible] One was signed by Mallory the other by Martin

"The fight last night seems to have restored Mallory to something [illegible] normal" observed Jerry "If it has done as much for Hamilton we'll have a lot to be thankful for"

"The minister has finally agreed" said Nancy, "that if Hamilton wakes up in his right mind nobody is to tell him about Williams and the guard Their deaths will be explained as part of the general fight last night"

Jerry fell silent, his thoughts wandering In another few hours they would be on their way back to civilization. In another week, perhaps, this glorious girl would be back on Broadway! charming the hearts of audiences

"And now, young man, you are going to help me with the dishes," she informed him, her eyes sparkling at his moody countenance.

Jerry carried a pile of dishes into the kitchen

"How dare you put them [illegible] the water without scraping [illegible] It's going to take me some [illegible] train you, but I'll do it [illegible]"

He grasped her [illegible] shoulders [illegible]

"What [illegible]

[illegible] parried not meeting his eyes

"Now you listen" said Jerry "[illegible] had enough [illegible] me with [illegible] you know I love you so [illegible] it? You [illegible] that I'm [illegible] your marvelous eyes [illegible] little scar [illegible] your [illegible] lips and my God you laugh at me"

A soft slender hand crept up to his mouth and pressed hard against it with surprising strength

"Jerry you're a [illegible]"

He spluttered and shook his head trying to speak

"Are you really" she asked [illegible] her clear eyes meeting his at last "going to cast me off and divorce me?"

He stared incredulously at her unable not daring to believe his ears

"You're a beast" Her [illegible] shook a little "Married two whole days and you haven't kissed me once"

He reached for her hungrily and if his hard muscled arms all but broke her back she made no complaint But of course she couldn't Her lips were sealed

At length it may have been five minutes later or an hour Nancy Wentworth Calhoun pushed her husband away and straightened her hair

"One more kiss!"

"Not until you return with another load of dishes"

He grumbled but hastened into the dining room

Just as he was scooping up an armful of plates and cups his eye fell upon a large square envelope Upon its face was his own name in large, scrawling letters. Anxious to return to Nancy, he grabbed a handful of plates and raced to the kitchen Thumbing open the envelope flap he withdrew the enclosure and stared puzzled at Emory's familiar handwriting

"What's the matter, Jerry?" Nancy was alarmed at his expression

"Here you read it to me" He thrust the letter into her hand.

"Dear old top," she read. "It's almost time to shove off to New York and, eventually, [illegible]. But I can't stick it.

"I'm a restless kind of [illegible]

[illegible] and become peaceful when the [illegible] clashes the gears

Between pals distance doesn't count We'll drift together [illegible] from time to time I'll [illegible] in on you put my muddy feet [illegible] your mahogany desk and tell you how I got my [illegible] of malaria And you'll tell me how your [illegible] I'll be sorry for you and maybe in all your [illegible] happiness you'll envy me just a little You'll smell the smell of [illegible] and you'll remember the kick back of a gat against your palm and you'll [illegible] while I am [illegible] you can't have everything

"It puzzles Jerry [illegible] the day when we faced a difficult decision [illegible] Well I've [illegible] and I'm joining up with Ashwood for a bit of a whirl somewhere Next to you he's the gamest little fighting cock I've ever known Unlike you he has no future in which he resembles me so we'll share together whatever old Lady Luck has in mind for us

"You're an ornery cuss, Jerry You fight too hard and too often You're an easy going guy, but you're hell on skates when you get riled And it's pretty tough to have to shove off without you.

"Listen, we're swiping the [illegible] boat, Ashie and I With a couple of hours' leeway we'll be off in the amphibian and you won't be able to catch us in the monoplane Give us a break if you can If you can't we'll make a race of it.

"Slap Steve on the back for me and tell him that so far as his conscience is concerned, he can sleep in his little house amid the pecan trees with the assurance that Ashwood won't operate again in the U S A. Elsewhere — who knows? Maybe we'll roll the dice again [illegible]
